

Martin Luther King Jr.

“The time is now for our beloved community”

Olivia Starner LMS 6G

Come together everyone, friends and neighbors

Always have understanding of our cultural differences

Race should not decide how you feel about someone

Love should know no differences

Imagine a community where everyone is accepted

Stand for what you believe is right

Lead this community to success

Equality is for everyone

Carlisle is a community that has equality but also has some room for improvement. Our community has a lot of programs that are open to anyone. The YMCA and YWCA are two facilities that welcome anyone and provide opportunities for everyone to meet all kinds of people. These programs bring everyone together and show how welcoming Carlisle is. Our community welcomes people from around the world to our army war college which helps us learn more about different cultures. I wonder if Martin Luther King Jr. were alive today what he would think about our community. I would hope he would be proud of what our community has taken from his words and applied it to our lives. I do think that he would think that we do have work left to fulfill his dream of equality and peace. Martin Luther King Jr. led by setting great examples that have inspired everyone to come together in peace. What examples do you set?
